

Feb 18 2011

e3bank Chairman continues to promote green development funding & social entrepreneurship

On Wednesday, Feb 16, Chairman Sandy Wiggins represented e3bank on a panel titled ‘Show me the Money’ for the Greater Fort Worth Real Estate Council, in Ft Worth Texas. As part of the Council’s Sustainability Summit Series, Sandy held an intimate discussion with developers, bankers, lenders and venture capitalists to share thoughts and ideas on funding green development.

On Friday, Feb 18, Sandy also took part in the Social Entrepreneurship Summit at Rutgers, Camden. This conference examined how investments in social entrepreneurship can help to increase jobs and grow businesses, non-profits, and other organizations. ‘Innovation, Social Benefit and Job Creation: The Potential of Social Entrepreneurship in South Jersey’ explored how new business models and services are helping non-profit and for-profit organizations to diversify their revenue streams and create new jobs. The conference considered how southern New Jersey’s economy can benefit from continued social impact investments by area businesses. Sources of funding to attract and support social entrepreneurs to the region were also discussed.